Notes for Jannetje Cadmus:

Jannetje (Jane) Cadmus was Christened on 19 Mar 1780 at the Reformed Dutch Church, Bergen, Bergen (now Hudson), New Jersey. (Ref: New Jersey, Births and Christenings Index, 1660-1931 on Ancestry.com) Jane Cadmus and Andrew Anderson were married on 23 May 1801 in Bergen (now Hudson) County, New Jersey. (Ref: New Jersey Marriages on Ancestry.com) Jane Cadmus Anderson died on 29 Apr 1864 in Jersey City, Hudson, New Jersey at age 84 years. (Ref: New Jersey, Deaths and Burials Index 1798-1971 on Ancestry.com) The BoukerWastieHouser Family Tree, owner: PBouker on Ancestry.com attributes the death of Jane Anderson to "Dropsy".

Jane Cadmus was quite a woman. First of all, she had 10 children. Second, when her husband died in 1819 she had nine children ranging in age from 17 years to 3 months, and she was pregnant with number 10. Third, she must have had quite a bit of support from her extended family (after all she was a Cadmus and an Anderson), but no matter how much support one has, for a person to raise 10 children without a help mate must be a challenge. Fourth, some time between 1834 and 1838, when she was about 54 to 58 years old, she moved to the wild frontier of Michigan with her daughter Catherine and son-in-law Obediah Bouker (and their two children), closely followed by her son John and his wife Caroline (and their three children). (Catherine and Obediah returned to New Jersey in about 1839, but John and Caroline remained in Michigan.) Jane returned to New Jersey in 1851, at age 71 years, after living in the wilderness for about 15 years.

Notes for Adriaen Thomasen:

Baptized 18 Sep 1650 in New Amsterdam (New York, New York, USA)

Acquackanonk is the name of one of New Jersey's first townships. The name means "a place in a rapid stream where fishing is done with a net". The land on which the town was situated was at one time owned by the Surveyor General of New Netherland Jacques Cortelyou, some "12,000 morgens at Aquackanonk on the Passaic, purchased by himself and associates of the Indians". It was first settled in 1678 by Dutch traders, who in 1693 formed a Dutch Reformed congregation.

Then, also in 1693, Acquackanonk Township was incorporated by the British in their newly established Province of New Jersey and was located in what was then the northern part of Essex County on the Passaic River. In 1837, Passaic County was created, incorporating the township and portions of both Essex County and Bergen County.

The name "Acquackanonk" is no longer used.

Notes for Andries Willemszen Hoppe:

From: <https://www.geni.com/people/Andries-Willemszen-Hoppe/6000000003149615879>

Andries Willemszen Hoppe (Hoppen) was in New Netherlands as early as 10 Sep 1651, when his daughter was baptized in New Amsterdam. He did not live long in the new colony, for he died in 1658, sometime after 25 Mar 1658, when he appeared in court and before 18 Dec 1658, when Geertje Hendricks appeared before the Orphans Court as a widow. It is not known when he arrived in New Netherlands or from where he emigrated. There is evidence that the surname Hoppe (Hoppen) existed in Holland as early as the 16th Century. However, we cannot be certain that he was Dutch, though it is likely that he, like his wife, was from Holland. By 1653 or 1656, he had been granted the right of "small burgher" of New Amsterdam, which meant he was a citizen entitled to certain privileges, such as the right to trade, operate a business or practice a profession. The Court Minutes of New Amsterdam reveals he was a merchant, trader, and freighter. Mention was made of trips to the North [north on the Hudson River to Ft. Orange, later Albany]. From mortgage records, we know he had a house on the "Heer Weech" (Long Highway now Broadway) north of Beaver St. and owned a lot in the warehouse area on the north side of Bridge Street between Broadway and Whitehall, near the East River.

Geertje Hendricks was the daughter of Aert Hendricks (?). She was the widow of Andries Willemszen Hoppe(n) of The Netherlands. They came to New Amsterdam, NY before 1651 when one of their daughters (Tryntje Andriesdr Hoppe) was baptized 10 Sept 1651 in New Amsterdam, NY. Andries has been granted the right of "small burgher" of New Amsterdam in 1653 or 1656, which meant he was a citizen entitled to certain privileges, such as the right to trade, operate a business or practice a profession. Andries died in 1658. After his death, Geertje Hendricks Hoppe often traded in beavers, and zeewan [Indian wampum], as well as in florins and guilders (the Dutch coins). Records indicated they sold or traded a variety of goods, including tobacco, pottery, boards, deerskin, elk hides, linen, brandy, and stones.

Geertje Hendricksdr and Andries Willemszen Hoppe had the following child:

Circa 1690, Dirck built the "Van Vechten House," which still stands today. Dirck Teunise Van Vechten died in 1702 in Catskill, New York. Little can be said about Jan's activities in New Amsterdam. His date of arrival is unknown.

However, some information is known: On 23 June 1645 he received land grants on the south side of Marketfield Street. On 20 April 1661 he bought a water mill from Abraham Pietersen, miller, located "on the fresh water" near present Foley Square. On 4 Oct 1647, he signed a power of attorney to Jan Janszen of New Amsterdam to receive money due him in Amsterdam. He was granted small burgher rights on 14 April 1657. He is shown in an undated entry on the membership list of the Dutch Reformed Church of New Amsterdam. The position of his name on this list may indicate that he joined the church as early as 1659. His wife, Hillegond Joris, joined the church on 2 July 1662. Hillegond Joris and a Jan Corneliszen whom we may assume was her husband appear together in the church records on 12 July 1654. In September 1664 Jan Cornelis Van Hooren joined with other citizens of New Amsterdam and vicinity in asking Pieter Stuyvesant to surrender New Amsterdam (and thus all of New Netherland) to the British without fighting to defend it. Jan last appears in the records of the Dutch Reformed Church on the baptismal register, 25 July 1666. Jan died not long after that, for, with banns dated 16 June 1669, Hillegond Joris, as widow of Jan Corneliszen, married Mr. Evert Pietersen Keteltas, widower of Grietje Arents.

Notes for Hillegond Joris:

Modified from: <https://www.geni.com/people/Hillegond-Joris/6000000003446670038>

Hillegond Joris, was the wife of Jan Corneliszen Van Hoorn. They were married on 16 Feb 1633 in Hoorn, Friesland, Netherlands. They emigrated to New Amsterdam together sometime before 1645. Jan died sometime after 1666. On 16 June 1669, Hillegond Joris, as widow of Jan Corneliszen, married Mr. Evert Pietersen Keteltas, widower of Grietje Arents. Evert was a schoolteacher, and he and Hillegond lived in the old Van Hoorn home on the south side of present Stone Street, between William and Broad Streets in about 1674 and in 1686. At this time both were shown as members of the Dutch Reformed Church. Hillegond was a midwife, and from 21 April 1655 was one of the official midwives of the city. She was recently called "the famous midwife". She appeared as a witness of the baptisms of numerous children, many of whom are of no traceable relationship to her, the first one on 27 Sept. 1643. On 7 March 1670/1 Evert Pietersen and wife Hillegon Joris asked the Court to "authorize some persons to compose, if possible, the differences arising between the above named Hillegond Joris and her children by a former marriage relative to their father's property." The difficulty must not have been serious or of long duration, for Hillegond continued to witness the baptisms of her grandchildren, the last time on 4 July 1683.

Notes for Abraham Staats:

From: <http://www.schenectadyhistory.org/families/hmgfm/hatt.html#staats>

Dr. Abram Staats was the first regular physician to settle in what is now Albany. He came over in 1642 in the same vessel as Rev. Dr. Megapolensis. Little is known of his professional skill, or whether he was employed like the minister to serve the inhabitants both spiritually and professionally. Albany then consisted of but twenty-five or thirty houses scattered along the river with a population of about one hundred, so Dr. Staats busied himself with other matters than his profession. He was the first presiding officer of the village council of Beverwyck. In 1642 his dwelling at Claverack was burned by the Indians, and his wife and others of his family perished. He became the owner of Fort Orange, it is said, and the land on which it stood came down to his descendants. He had a license to trade in furs, and in 1647 sent to New Amsterdam a shipment of four thousand and two hundred beaver skins. For many years he was captain of the sloop "Claverack," plying between Albany and New York in 1684. He married Catrina Jochemse, daughter of Jochem Wesselse. He had four sons who reached maturity, Jacob, Abraham, born 1665, Samuel and Jochem.

Was also known as "Catrina Jochemse" because she was the daughter of Jochem Wesselse.
