Ambrose Edward Barnes

Franklin P. Mason II, written 2023

Ambrose Edward Barnes was born in May 1844 in New York City. He was the son of Ambrose Waterhouse Barnes (1819-1874) and Elizabeth Littell (1823-1909).

Ambrose Edward Barnes came from Puritan stock. The first Barnes immigrant to America was Thomas Barnes (1636 to 1679), eighth generation ancestor, who was born in Barking, Essex, England, a suburb of London, just 10 miles east of London on the Thames River. Thomas Barnes came to America, to Boston, at age 20 years, in 1656 on the ship Speedwell.¹

Even though the first Barnes ancestor of Ambrose Edward Barnes came to America in 1656, he had other ancestors who arrived before that date. For example, Thomas Goodenow (1608 to 1666), who was from Wilshire, England, and John Bent (1596 to 1672), who was from Hampshire, England, both arrived in Boston in 1638 on the ship Confidence. (Both of these people were ninth generation ancestors of Ambrose.)

Ambrose Edward Barnes' parents were married on 28 October 1841 at the Laight Street Baptist Church, New York, New York. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. W. W. Everts.²

Ambrose Waterhouse Barnes and Elizabeth Littell Barnes had nine children, all of whom were born in New York City except the last, who was born in East Orange, Essex, New Jersey.

Ambrose Waterhouse Barnes founded the Barnes Furniture Company in 1840. The company was very successful. Ambrose Edward Barnes joined his father in the furniture business in 1860, at age 16 years, as a clerk. By 1865, at age 21, Ambrose Edward was thoroughly involved in the business. Ambrose took over the business in about 1870, at age 26 years, shortly before his father died in 1874.

Ambrose Edward Barnes had three long-term relationships during his life, two marriages and one long-term liaison.

Ambrose Edward Barnes married Henrietta Malloy on 11 March 1868. Henrietta was the daughter of Rowland S. Malloy (died 1860) and Harriet Morris (died 1870). (Refer to Appendix F for more information on the Malloy family.)

At the time of their marriage, Ambrose was 24 years of age. Henrietta was born in July 1847. Thus, she was age 20 years, 8 months at that time.

One can only speculate, but it seems likely that Henrietta was a beautiful and charming young woman, and it seems likely that Ambrose loved her deeply. It is probable that Ambrose considered Henrietta to be the love of his life.

However, tragically, Henrietta died suddenly on 04 Apr 1869, at age 21 years, 9 months, just one year and one month after the wedding.

NEW YORK HERALD, TUESDAY, APRIL 6, 1869

BARNES.—Suddenly on Sunday, April 4, HENRIETTA, wife of Ambrose E. Barnes, and only daughter of the late Rowland S. and Harriet Malloy, aged 21 years and 9 months.

Funeral services will be held at the residence of her mother, No. 195 Ross street, Williamsburg, this (Tuesday) afternoon, at two o'clock. Friends and relatives of the family are invited to attend without further notice.

1869 Death notice for Henrietta Malloy Barnes

Ambrose was obviously devastated by the death of his young wife.

After his wife's death, Ambrose moved back in with his parents. It would be another 7 years before Ambrose would marry again.

On 12 April 1876, at the age of 32 years, Ambrose Edward Barnes married Caroline Meserole van der Voort, who was age 34 years at that time. [Caroline Meserole van der Voort was born on 25 Jun 1842 in New York; and she died on September 1917 in Westchester County, New York.]

Caroline Meserole van der Voort was a scion of two ancient and wealthy families of Brooklyn.

First, she was a descendant of Jean Meserole, who came to America in 1663.

The Meseroles were originally French Huguenots, but the clan Patriarch, Jean Miserol, originally from Picardy, lost everything when France ended religious toleration, so he fled for Holland where he married another Huguenot refugee, Jonica Carten. They adopted Dutch culture and language and had an infant son, Jan, in the Netherlands, before leaving for America.³

By inheritance and purchase, the Meseroles ended up owning much of the land that today comprises Northern Greenpoint, as well as the riverfront area of Williamsburg.

³ From: <https://historicgreenpoint.wordpress.com/2015/02/21/meserole-women-and-greenpoint-history/>

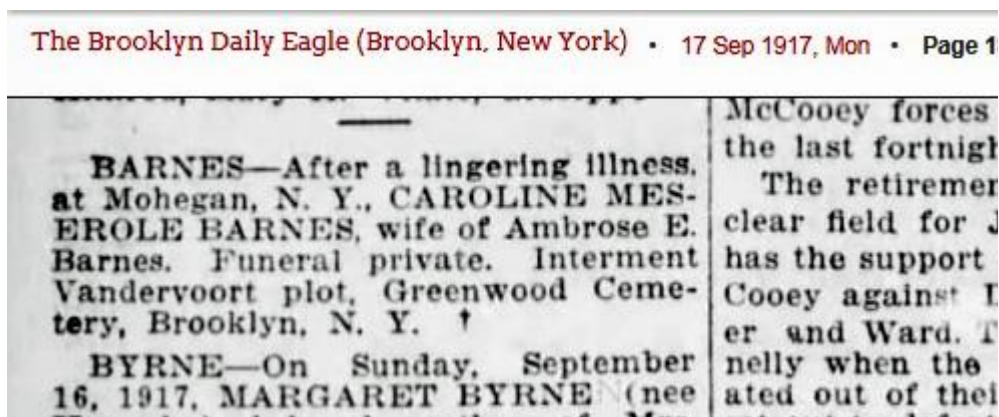

Second, she was a descendant of Michael (Paulus) van der Voort, who came to America about 1633 to Pavonia. (He later settled in Brooklyn.) And she is descended from his son Paulus (Michaelse) van der Voort.⁴ The van der Voort family was also a wealthy and prominent family in Brooklyn.

Ambrose Edward Barnes and Caroline van der Voort Barnes had the following children, both of whom were born in Brooklyn, New York:

Ambrose Theodore Barnes, b. 16 June 1879

Vandervoort Barnes, b. about 1881, (died 15 August 1881)

Caroline Meserole van der Voort is shown in the subsequent US Census records in 1880, 1900, and 1910. She died in 1917 and is buried in the van der Voort plot in the Green-Wood Cemetery in Brooklyn.

1917 Caroline M. Barnes death notice

Ambrose Edward Barnes' third long-term relationship began sometime about 1880. This relationship was carried out while Ambrose was still married to Caroline. Thus, it did not result in an official marriage.

This third, long-time relationship was with Sarah Knox Anderson, daughter of Andrew Anderson and Cordelia L. Knox. Andrew Anderson came from Dutch stock. His ancestors included the Cadmus family and related families, which were some of the first settlers, in the early to mid-1600s, of New Amsterdam (later New York). Cordelia L. Knox came from Puritan stock through her mother and Scotch Irish stock through her father. Her mother's Puritan family were some of the first settlers of Massachusetts, including Jehu Burr, who came to America in 1630 as a member of the Winthrop Fleet.

At the beginning of their relationship, Ambrose was about 36 years of age and Sarah was about 30. [Sarah Knox Anderson, born on 06 May 1850 in Watertown, New York; died on 27 July 1926 in New York City.]

Ambrose Edward Barnes and Sarah Knox Anderson had the following children, all of whom were born in New York City:

Ambrose Edward Barnes, b. 1881, (died before 1900)

Violet Sadie Barnes, b. 1883

Genevieve Knox Barnes, b. 1890

⁴ <https://www.wikitree.com/wiki/Vandervoort-10>

See Appendix G. And for much more information on these children, refer to A Brief History of Willard Cassidy Mason and Genevieve Knox Barnes.

Thus, Ambrose Edward had two families simultaneously, living just a few miles apart from one another.

The extent to which Ambrose interacted with his children from this liaison is unknown. However, Sarah Knox Anderson assumed the surname “Barnes” in her daily life and in US Census records, among others. And the children knew who their father was unambiguously, listing his name in all their official records.

Sarah Knox Anderson Barnes died in 1926. She is buried in the Anderson plot in Woodlawn Cemetery in the Bronx.

Ambrose Edward Barnes was a very successful businessman for many years. (See below.) He also married very well. This success in business, and being associated with the ancient families of Meserole and van der Voort, came with certain advantages. For example, Ambrose and his family lived in some of the best neighborhoods of Brooklyn, as is outlined in Appendix A and Appendix C.

For another example, he was a member of the very exclusive Montauk Club in Brooklyn. The Montauk Club is on the corner of Eighth Avenue and Lincoln Place in Park Slope, just off Grand Army Plaza of Prospect Park. The club was established in 1891 and is housed in a Venetian Gothic palazzo-inspired building.⁵

⁵ <https://untappedcities.com/2023/02/03/montauk-club-park-slope-brooklyn/> Some of the notable people who have stepped through the of the doors of the Montauk Club include four United States Presidents—John F. Kennedy, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Grover Cleveland, and William McKinley.

Ambrose was also civic minded. For example, in 1869, he was a Second Lieutenant of the Forty-seventh regiment of the Brooklyn National Guard.

Ambrose was also a member of the Hyatt Masonic Lodge of Brooklyn, a fraternal organization that, among other things, requires its members to “believe in some kind of Supreme Being” and to be of “good morals, reputation, and financially supporting himself and family.”⁶

Ambrose Edward Barnes was involved in the manufacture and sale of furniture for over 44 years, from the time he was 16 years of age (in 1860) until he was 60 (in 1904). In fact, he (with his father before him and his brother with him) was one of the largest and most famous furniture manufacturers in New York City!

The Barnes Furniture Company was established in about 1840 by Ambrose Waterhouse Barnes, the father of Ambrose Edward Barnes. The company was very successful almost immediately after it was established. By 1870, when Ambrose W. was 51 years of age and Ambrose E. was 26, The company name had changed to "A. W. Barnes & Son." Thus, Ambrose E. began to assume control of the company at quite a young age.

Perhaps Ambrose Waterhouse Barnes was already in poor health by 1870, because he died just a few years later, in 1874, at the age of 55 years.

After his father died, Ambrose took his brother, Walter Frederick Barnes, into the company as a junior partner. And the name of the company was changed to "Ambrose E. Barnes & Brother". Walter was only 17 years of age at the time.

It is clear that Ambrose Edward Barnes was very much involved in the company. For example, in 1874 he received a patent from the US Patent Office for "Improvement in Combined Dressing-Bureaus and Wardrobes." And another patent in 1875 for "Improvement in Nursery-Chairs." Refer to Appendix D for more information.

In addition, Ambrose was a charter member of and was on the Board of Directors of the Furniture Trade Association (of New York and Brooklyn), and he was elected the Treasurer at its first annual meeting in 1879. And he was elected Vice President of the Association in 1881.

Ambrose E. Barnes & Brother had an extensive domestic and export business. In 1888, the publication, Illustrated New York, The Metropolis of To-day, on page 170, stated the following about the company:⁷

[The Barnes furniture company] was originally founded in 1840 by Mr. Ambrose W Barnes and continued by him until 1871 he was succeeded by the present proprietors, Messrs. Ambrose E and Walter F Barnes. The career of the concern has been one of steady, uninterrupted development, and under the present management the house has been advanced to the foremost position it now occupies.

The extensive premises occupied consist of two spacious buildings [at 198-200 Canal Street], each having six commodious floors and basements, and equipped with every modern appliance and convenience to facilitate the prosecution of business.

The trade of the house extends to all sections of New York and the surrounding States, and also throughout the Southern States, while their export trade with South and Central America, the West Indies and Australia, is constantly on the increase.

In one notice published in 1890, the company was called “the largest wholesale furniture dealers and manufacturers in that [New York] city.”⁸ That might have been an exaggeration, but it does convey the size and importance of the company at that time.

Folding beds of all types and styles were quite the rage in the second half of the 1800s.⁹ At about that time, Ambrose founded the Columbia Folding Bed Company, which operated for some time under that name. (Several folding bed companies had already been established in Grand Rapids, to which city Ambrose made frequent business trips.) The 1898 New York City Directory for Ambrose Edward Barnes shows this enterprise at 274 Leonard Street in Manhattan, just six blocks from the principal factory.

Unfortunately, Ambrose E. Barnes & Brother Furniture Company went into bankruptcy in 1904. The furniture business had been Ambrose' life from the time he was about 16 years of age, when he started at the company as a clerk, until he was 60 years of age, for a total of 44 years. No reason has been found for the bankruptcy.

[After the company Ambrose E. Barnes & Brother went bankrupt in 1904, the company was revived by his brother, Walter Frederick Barnes. Walter continued the company until, at least, 1915 under the name "Walter F. Barnes Company".¹⁰]

After the bankruptcy in 1904, Ambrose continued to live with his wife and child at 775 Carroll Street in the Prospect Heights neighborhood in Brooklyn where he had lived since 1891.

By 1910, Ambrose (at age 66 years) and his family had moved to 667 Vanderbilt Avenue in Brooklyn, which was still in the Prospect Heights neighborhood of Brooklyn about two blocks from Prospect Park. His son, Ambrose Theodore, was 30 years of age at that time, and he was a Clerk in an Insurance Office.

Ambrose E., himself is listed as a Solicitor for a Mercantile House. (His many years as a high-level businessman had given Ambrose the experience to advise others in legal matters.)

Sometime after 1910, however, it would seem that the fortunes of Ambrose declined considerably. For example, there are indications that Ambrose and his wife became estranged. Caroline's obituary indicated that she had been in poor health for some time ("lingering illness"). And she died in Upstate New York, far from The City. Also, Caroline was buried in the van der Voort cemetery plot,¹¹ whereas Ambrose was buried in the Barnes plot,¹² albeit in the same cemetery as one another.

In addition, there is an indication that, in 1915, Ambrose was a lodger in someone else's house. The 1915 New York State Census for Brooklyn shows one, and only one, Ambrose Barnes. This Ambrose Barnes was 71 years of age (which is correct) living in Brooklyn (as expected). This Ambrose Barnes lived at 197 Bergen Street in Brooklyn, about a mile from his last known address and just over a mile from Prospect Park. As mentioned, this Ambrose was listed as a Lodger, who was shown as a "Collector for Newspaper". If this is Ambrose Edward Barnes, it would have been the one, and only, time that Ambrose had not lived with close family members.

Be that as it may, by 1918, Ambrose was living with his son, Ambrose Theodore Barnes (1879 to 1964), in Plainfield, New Jersey. Ambrose T. Barnes had one child, Audrey Wilson Barnes, who was born on 19 June 1917. Thus, Ambrose E. Barnes got to be not only with his son but also his granddaughter during the last years of his life.

Ambrose Edward Barnes died on 21 September 1919 in Plainfield, New Jersey. He is buried in the Barnes plot with his parents in Green-Wood Cemetery in Brooklyn.

⁹ Refer to: <https://dustyoldthing.com/murphy-bed-evolution/>

¹⁰ In October of 1914, Walter married Cora B. Reeve of Riverhead, Long Island, who was an heiress.

¹² Ambrose died in 1919 in New Jersey and is buried in the Barnes plot with his parents in Green-Wood Cemetery in Brooklyn (Lot 19056, Section 151, Grave RRC).

Ambrose E. Barnes

AMBROSE E. BARNES, who died on September 21 at Plainfield, N. J., was for many years a manufacturer and dealer in furniture in New York City. His father, A. W. Barnes, founded the business in the early '50s. Old-timers will remember the firm of A. W. Barnes & Son at 438 Pearl street. In 1874 the firm passed to his sons under the title of Ambrose E. Barnes & Brothers.

The new firm soon moved to the corner building, 198 and 200 Canal street and remained there for many years. Early in its career chairs were specialized in and a large business was developed. The assembling plant was in Greenpoint, Brooklyn, N. Y. Eventually nearly all types of furniture were manufactured or dealt in. When folding beds were beginning to become popular, Mr. Barnes founded the Columbia Folding Bed Company, which operated for some time under that name. Mr. Barnes in his day was well known to the trade in Grand Rapids and made frequent trips to that city.

Born in New York City, in January, 1843, he resided most of his life in Brooklyn, N. Y. He was at one time a member of the Forty-seventh regiment, the Hyatt Masonic lodge and the Montauk club, all of Brooklyn, the Transportation club of New York, besides several trade organizations.

The polling places in North Plainfield this year are as follows:

District No. 1—45 Somerset St.; No. 2, 175 Somerset St.; No. 3, 94 Somerset St.; No. 4, 108 Somerset St., and No. 5, 237 Somerset St.

AMBROSE E. BARNES DIED YESTERDAY

Ambrose E. Barnes, of Belvidere avenue, died yesterday in the seventy-sixth year of his age after a brief illness. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the interment will be made in the family plot in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Mr. Barnes was born in East Orange; he came to this city from Brooklyn two years ago, and was living retired. He was a manufacturer of furniture with a factory at Canal and Mulberry streets, New York, and was the first manufacturer of folding beds in this country. He leaves one son, Ambros T. Barnes, with whom he lived since coming to this city; one sister, Mrs. Victoria Gibson, of Brooklyn, and three brothers, Frank T. Barnes, of River Edge, N. J.; Edgar F. Barnes, of Brooklyn, and Walter F. Barnes, of River Head, L. I.

1891 New York City Directory for Ambrose Edward Barnes, age 47 years. The family was now living at 775 Carroll Street in the Prospect Heights neighborhood of Brooklyn, just a block from Prospect Park¹⁷ (which had been completed in 1868). At that time, Prospect Heights was the most fashionable neighborhood in Brooklyn. The furniture business was still at 198-200 Canal Street in Manhattan. Note that Walter F. Barnes is shown residing at 255 Clifton Place, in the Clinton Hill Neighborhood, just a mile from his brother.

Note. In about 1919, the daughter of Ambrose Edward Barnes, Genevieve Knox Barnes Mason (with her husband and son) moved to Brooklyn where they lived for several years at 250 Washington Avenue, in the Clinton Hill neighborhood of Brooklyn, just a mile and a half (about a 30-minute walk) to Prospect Park.

1920 US Census for Ambrose Theodore Barnes, age 40 years, living with his wife and daughter, Audrey Wilson Barnes (1917 to 2018), in Plainfield, New Jersey. Audrey was 2½ years of age at that time.

Note. In April of 2017, the author met Audrey Barnes Cook Weber at her home in Ocean County, New Jersey, when Audrey was just shy of 100 years of age. At that time, Audrey and the author did DNA testing, which proved their common ancestry. Refer to A Brief History of Willard Cassidy Mason and Genevieve Knox Barnes.

UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE.

IMPROVEMENT IN COMBINED DRESSING-BUREAUS AND WARDROBES.

Specification forming part of Letters Patent No. 156,201, dated October 27, 1874; application filed June 3, 1874.

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that I, AMBROSE E. BARNES, of the city, county, and State of New York, have invented a certain new and Improved Combined Dressing-Bureau and Wardrobe, of which the following is a specification:

This invention is illustrated in the accompanying drawing, in which—

Similar letters indicate corresponding parts.

This invention has for its object to produce a new and improved article of furniture, namely, a combined dressing-bureau and wardrobe, the same being constructed in the usual manner, with the exception that, in the present invention, the material or side employed for forming one end of the bureau is extended above the top of the same, which extension, together with that portion which forms one side of the bureau, also forms one side of the wardrobe, the parts being so constructed and intimately connected together during their construction as to be incapable of detachment for separate use unless a reorganization of each article composing my combination be made; the prime object being to furnish the market with an exceedingly compact, convenient and cheap article of furniture, which is of particular advantage for the poorer classes of the population that are compelled to live in crowded dwelling-houses.

In the drawing, the letter A represents a bureau, which may be of any desired or approved construction, on the top of which is a looking-glass, A, while to its side may be attached a towel-rack, C, so that said bureau can be used conveniently for washing and dressing. One side, a, of this bureau extends above its top, and by such extension forms one side of a wardrobe, D, so that dresses, coats, and other articles of wearing apparel can be hung up in the wardrobe, while shirts, stockings, and other articles are stowed away in the drawers of the bureau, and at the same time all the articles required for wear are kept close together, so that they can be reached with convenience. On that face of the side a of the wardrobe which faces toward the bureau may be secured a series of shelves, E, for the reception of books; and by these means I have produced a single piece of furniture which serves various different purposes, which takes up comparatively little room, and which can be constructed at a low price; or, if desired, it can be made more or less ornamental, to suit the taste of the public.

It will thus be seen that, during the process of constructing the bureau and the wardrobe, the same are, in fact, permanently connected together, since the material which forms one side of the bureau, by being extended above the top of the same, is also utilized for forming one side of the wardrobe, by which peculiar arrangement a saving of material and less expense in construction is secured, an ornamental and novel article produced, and at the same time less space occupied by the article, whether in an apartment or in transportation.

What I claim is—

An improved article of furniture, viz., a combined dressing-bureau and wardrobe, constructed as described—that is to say, with the material or side piece a, which forms one side of the bureau and one side of the wardrobe—substantially as herein shown and described.

UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE.

AMBROSE E. BARNES, OF NEW YORK, N. Y.

IMPROVEMENT IN NURSERY-CHAIRS.

Specification forming part of Letters Patent No. 168,960, dated October 19, 1875; application filed September 23, 1875.

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that I, AMBROSE E. BARNES, of the city, county, and State of New York, have invented a new and useful Improvement in High Chairs for Children, which improvement is fully set forth in the following specification, reference being had to the accompanying drawing, in which—

Figure 1 represents a side elevation of my improvement. Fig. 2 is a cross-section thereof when used as a chair and table.

My invention relates to a child's high chair, which is convertible into a chair and table; and it consists in the combination of a chair-seat with a stand which is adapted to form a table, the seat being fitted to the stand, and being connected to it by links in such a manner that the seat is capable of being swung down and placed in front of the stand to be used as a low chair while, when the seat is thus swung down, it is retained in the proper relation toward the table by means of the links. A locking device is combined with the chair-seat and stand for the purpose of fastening the seat when the whole is used as a high chair.

In the drawing, the letter A designates a chair-seat which is provided with a back and with arms, and in which is formed a hole, B, beneath which may be placed a chamber-pot. This seat A has legs C, the spaces between which are filled up by boards D, whereby the space below the seat A is closed, and if a chamber-pot be placed beneath it, the pot is concealed from view. Access is had to the space beneath the seat through a door in one of the walls D. The letter E designates a stand composed of a top and supporting-legs, the top being provided on three of its sides with side rails F. The fourth side of this top is left free of a rail, in order that when the stand is used as a table by a child, the latter may be seated on said open side, and articles may be readily placed on the stand or removed. From the top of the stand E rise tenons G, and the legs C of the seat A are provided with mortises fitted to these tenons, so that if the seat is placed on the stand, and the tenons G are adjusted within the mortises, the seat is thereby held against a lateral movement. The seat A is fitted on the stand E, the legs of the seat forming continuations of the legs of the stand when the one is placed on the other, as shown in Fig. 1. The seat A is connected to the stand E through the medium of links H, which are located on opposite sides thereof, and are pivoted both to the seat and to the stand, and extend in oblique directions. The object of these links is, mainly, to hold the seat and stand together when the seat is swung down in front of the stand, as represented in Fig. 2, the seat thus constituting a low chair, and the stand a table. The links at the same time form arms to the chair, and, to some extent, prevent a child, when placed in the chair, from getting up of itself, or from falling out. The links also serve to prevent a forward movement of the seat A when it is placed on the stand, as in Fig. 1.

In order to prevent the seat from falling backward from the stand E, I attach to the front part thereof a hook and staple, a b, or other suitable locking device, which, when properly adjusted, serve to fasten the seat and stand firmly together.

By this arrangement I obtain an article which can be readily converted into a child's high chair, or into a low chair and table, and which can be got up at a comparatively small cost.

What I claim as new, and desire to secure by Letters Patent, is—

A child's high chair constructed of the seat A, stand E, links H, and locking device a b, all combined and operating substantially as described.

In testimony that I claim the foregoing I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 21st day of September, 1875.

FURNITURE TRADE ASSOCIATION.

THEIR FIRST ANNUAL MEETING—HOW SHALL PRICES BE ADVANCED?

The principal furniture manufacturers of this City and Brooklyn have recently organized under the name of the Furniture Trade Association, and this body yesterday held its first annual meeting in the parlors of the Occidental Hotel, corner of Bowery and Broome streets. It was formed to protect the best interests of the manufacturers, by moving as a body in securing justice in freight tariffs, advances in prices, settling questions of labor and wages, and investigating the causes of failures. It was also organized with the view of securing, by united action, proper settlements, protection to creditors, and the punishment of dishonest dealers. The meeting yesterday was preceded by a lunch, and soon after 2 o'clock the association was called to order by Mr. H. C. Silsbee, Vice-President, who presided in the absence of the President, Mr. H. P. De Graaf. Mr. Robert P. Lyon, Secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting, and the association elected the following officers for the year: President, H. P. De Graaf, of De Graaf & Taylor; Vice-President, H. C. Silsbee, of Silsbee & Mohr; Treasurer, Ambrose E. Barnes, of A. E. Barnes & Co.; Secretary, Robert P. Lyon. The above officers, with the following, constitute the Board of Directors: C. L. Gardner, of Gardner & Co.; Robert Mitchell, of Cincinnati; F. M. Holmes, of Boston; J. Lloyd Haigh, James M. Shanahan, James H. Thorp, A. L. Baldwin, and B. F. Webb. An hour or two was spent in the discussion of the question, "How can prices best be advanced to keep pace with the increased cost of labor and materials?" Remarks were made by Josiah

FURNITURE TRADE ASSOCIATION.

THIRD ANNUAL MEETING AND BANQUET AT THE ST. NICHOLAS.

The Furniture Trade Association of New-York, which held its first annual meeting and banquet at the Occidental Hotel, in the Bowery, has grown rapidly since it established the custom of annual gatherings and dinners, and last night, to the number of 200 or more, held its third annual meeting and banquet at the St. Nicholas Hotel. The business meeting was called to order in one of the parlors, just before 8 o'clock, by Mr. H. P. De Graaf, of De Graaf & Taylor, President of the association. The attendance at the meeting was large, among those present being members of the New-York association representing many of the leading furniture manufacturers, and many representatives of the Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore associations. Vice-President Ambrose E. Barnes, of the New-York association, read the annual report of the Board of Directors, in which the statement was made that investigation had been made to ascertain whether any failures of debtors of the association had been made by fraud or deceit. Several cases have been investigated, but the Directors complained of a lack of support on the part of creditors who were too anxious to compromise and release debtors without examination, the object being to avoid the trouble of investigation. For lack of co-operation there were two instances of absolute escape by debtors. A resolution was suggested, which was afterward adopted. It was reported that the association had 150 associate members East, West, and South, and that three Special Directors had been appointed for those sections, in Baltimore, Boston, and Cincinnati. A word of praise was spoken for the Secretary, Mr. Robert P. Lyon. The report was accepted.

The association then proceeded to an election of officers, resulting in the re-election of H. P. De Graaf as President, Ambrose E. Barnes as Vice-President, Robert P. Lyon as Secretary, A. L. Baldwin, Treasurer, and in the election, as Directors, of Joel W. Mason, James H. Thorp, O. L. Gardner, James M. Sbanahan, Frederick Mohr, H. P. Williams, John McClave, Josiah Partridge, William E. Watson, J. Wayland Kimball, Charles J. Griffith, and H. J. Farrington. As Special Directors, F. Mr. Holmes was chosen for the East, Robert Mitchell for the West, and Frank B. Sloan for the South. President De Graaf, in returning thanks for his re-election, declared his opposition to a third term, and his determination not to again accept the office. He alluded in terms of untinted praise to the efforts of Secretary Lyon in behalf of the association, his remarks being warmly applauded. Letters of regret were read from Mr. F. M. Holmes, of Boston, and Mr. Robert Mitchell, of Cincinnati, Special Directors for the East and West, and Josiah Partridge made some interesting statements regarding the wonderful prosperity of the trade during the year. He objected to the custom of making New-York City the "dumping-ground" for all the shops in the country. At the close of the President's speech Mr. Ambrose E. Barnes offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

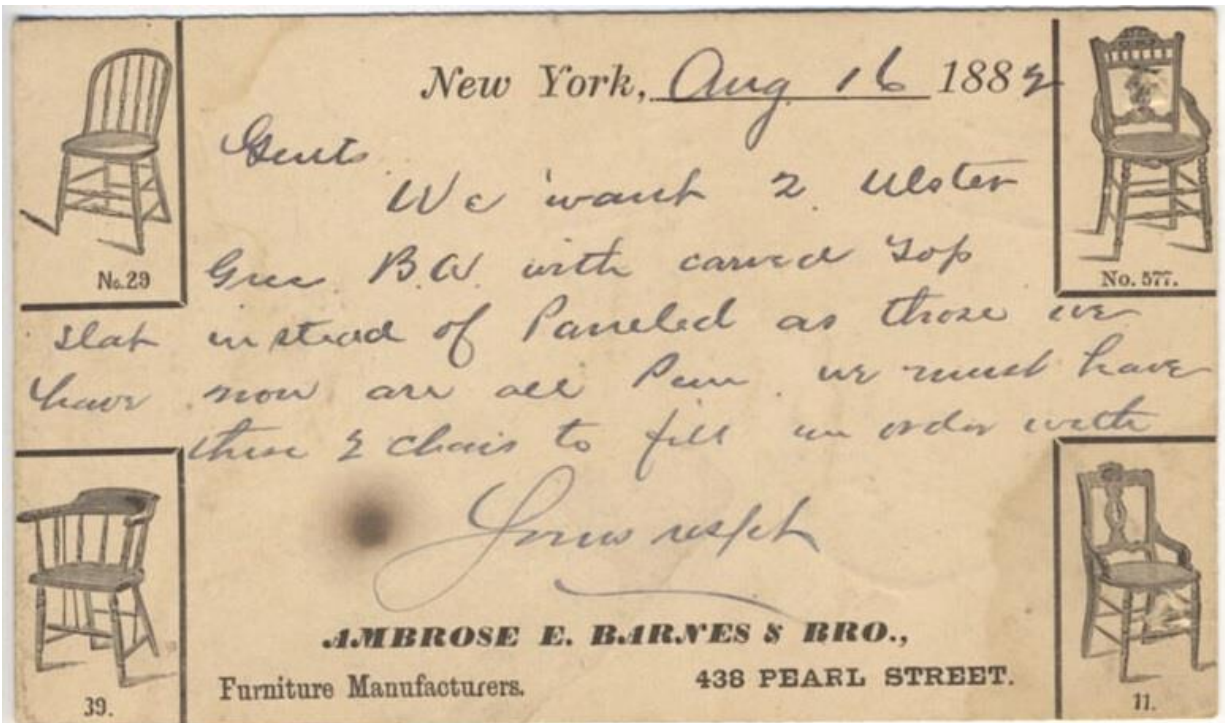

Resolved, That the members of this association are hereby requested to refuse to compromise with any debtor who, after failing, has not submitted to the association or any of its associate orders a full explanation of affairs, and whose statement has not been investigated or advised upon by the association, an associated exchange, or a committee of creditors properly appointed to investigate the failure.

After the meeting, about 200 members and guests of the association marched into the dining-room and partook of a dinner. The menu for the occasion was provided with a holly-wood tablet, on which the virtues of the association, were impressed in letters of silver and gold, together with the inscription: "Who says that two of a trade never agree. Behold this goodly company." The tablet was bound to the bill of fare by a pink or blue ribbon. Among those who responded to toasts were James Wemyss, of the Boston Furniture Trade Association; Mr. Thompson, of Phil-

AMBROSE E. BARNES & BROTHER, Furniture, Nos. 198 and 200 Canal Street.—There is no doubt that the furniture business of New York, in its various departments, presents a field for the exercise of business enterprise second to no other commercial industry, and that the energy displayed by the merchants engaged in it has done much toward developing the commercial importance of the metropolis. One of the oldest, best known, and most extensive establishments of the kind is that of Messrs. Ambrose E. Barnes & Bro., located at Nos. 198 and 200 Canal Street. This house was originally founded in 1840 by Mr. Ambrose W. Barnes, and continued by him until 1870, when he was succeeded by the present proprietors, Messrs. Ambrose E. and Walter F. Barnes. The career of the concern has been one of steady, uninterrupted development, and under the present management the house has been advanced to the foremost position it now occupies. The extensive premises occupied consist of two spacious buildings, each having six commodious floors and basements, and equipped with every modern appliance and convenience to facilitate the prosecution of business. These mammoth warehouses are filled to their utmost capacity with an immense stock, comprising a most comprehensive stock of furniture of every description, both in cheap and high-priced grades, all of the most reliable manufacture, and representing the finest productions of the kind now obtainable in the market. The goods are marked at such prices as to give the highest value in every sale effected, and customers can rely upon all representations made them by the proprietors and their efficient staff of assistants. The trade of the house extends to all sections of New York and the surrounding States, and also throughout the Southern States, while their export trade with South and Central America, the West Indies and Australia, is constantly on the increase. The Messrs. Barnes are natives of this city, and are too well-known in connection with the furniture trade to require personal comments at our hands. In conclusion, however, we may say that the house is founded upon a policy at once just and liberal to all, and is well deserving of the prosperity which it enjoys.

The meeting which was held at the Aster House on Tuesday, January 5th, for the creditors of A. E. Barnes & Bro. brought the result which showed that deserved consideration had been allotted this old established house. At the meeting of the 26th ult. the total assets were shown to be \$20,331.22, while the liabilities footed to \$19,522.92 at that date neither member of the firm was prepared to state what offer could be made to the creditors; but at the meeting on January 5th Ambrose E. Barnes & Bro. offered a settlement at 50 per cent., which was declined, and the creditors agreed to accept 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ cash payment. A third meeting will be held at the same place on Tuesday next at 1 o'clock.

1904 January Ambrose E. Barnes & Brother went bankrupt! No explanation is now available as to why. It is evident that bankruptcy discussions were held with regret: "that deserved consideration had been allotted this old established house".

Commissioner Best and President Winter of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit concerning a letter sent by Mr. Winter to the Commissioner.

Bridge Commissioner Best to-day said he had received word from the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company in answer to his communication of a few weeks ago, addressed to the transportation companies of Manhattan and Brooklyn, asking what their attitude is with respect to the proposition to equip the Williamsburg bridge for travel. The bridge commissioner said that he had received a letter from the president of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, stating that the company has a plan which it will soon submit to the bridge commissioner for operating cars on the new bridge. No intimation of what the plan is was given to the bridge commissioner, and the latter said to-day that he hasn't the least idea what it is.

Commissioner Best, however, said he was pleased to hear from the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, and that he expects now that before long something may be done to put the new bridge in shape for travel. The commissioner has also heard from President Hines of the Coney Island and Brooklyn Railroad Company, but the latter, said Commissioner Best to-day, had no proposition to offer, nor did he say whether or not he would have one.

Commissioner Best, however, said that he is of the opinion that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and the Coney Island and Brooklyn Company are working hand in hand, and that whatever proposition the for-tan, Colonel Emerson, slightly raising a letter slightly raising a letter fire and a number of slightly raising a letter ing were driven to the street by the smoke.

BANKRUPTCY COURT BUSY.

Barnes Brothers Admit Inability to Meet Their Obligations and Two Others File Petitions.

Ambrose E. Barnes and Walter F. Barnes, in the furniture business in Manhattan, and residents of Brooklyn, have been summoned to appear in the United States Court of Brooklyn on February 19 to show cause why they should not be adjudged bankrupt. A petition praying that they be adjudged bankrupt, was filed with the clerk of the United States District Court yesterday afternoon. The petitioners are the Heywood Brothers & Wakefield Company, the Quigley Furniture Company of Whitesboro, N. Y., and the W. F. Whitney Chair Company.

The petition against the Barnes brothers was filed consequent to an understanding between them and the petitioning creditors. They admitted their inability to meet their obligations, in a signed statement dated February 13, which is made a part of the petition. The petitioners allege claims amounting to $3,835.98. Other liabilities will amount to much more. Adolph Kiendl has been appointed receiver.
